

Mass Communication Specialist Petty Officer 1st Class Stefanie Antosh is a Combat Cameraman at Fleet Combat Camera Pacific, San Diego. She is also a Military Motion Media graduate of the S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications located at Syracuse University.

Antosh was born in San Diego, California on April 12, 1982, to dual-military parents and moved to Fredericksburg, Virginia, at age 12. In June 2002, after completing two years of community college, MC1 enlisted in the United States Navy as a Photographer's Mate.

Her first command was Pre-Commissioning Unit Ronald Reagan (PCU 76) as part of the original commissioning crew and member of the Photo Lab crew of the aircraft carrier in Norfolk, Virginia. After riding the ship to its homeport in San Diego, MC1 Antosh was assigned at Fleet Imaging Command Pacific. After one year in San Diego she was assigned as the Photo Lab ALPO onboard the submarine tender USS Frank Cable (AS-40), Agana, Guam. Two years later she went to work for NATO at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers, Europe (SHAPE), Mons, Belgium, as the Chief, Internal Communications.

In October 2012, Antosh returned from a six-month deployment to Kandahar province, Afghanistan, in support of Combined Joint Special Operations Task Force – Afghanistan. She documented more than 5,000 images of Village Support Operations and Cultural Support Teams in support of combatant commanders.

Antosh has two rescued dogs Tao Tao and Titan.
